Baisakhi Teaches Us to Celebrate the Fruits of Our hard Work.

Baisakhi Frolics

Our young learners from pre- primary wing(Playpen to Std 1) embarked on a vibrant celebration of Baisakhi, imbuing the occasion with unbridled enthusiasm through adorning traditional attire, not only crafted creative thumb printed wall hangings, colourful dhols, badges featuring the Khanda Sahib but also soul-stirring shabads and poignant poems. They paid a heartfelt tribute to the rich cultural heritage of Punjab, complemented by a delectable array of traditional delicacies.

Annual Light and Sound Show 2025

There's no bigger task than protecting the homeland of our country.

On the occasion of annual function, the play 'Mitti Wajaa Maardi' was successfully conducted and commendably presented with the zealous efforts of the budding artists of the school on 18th April 2025 in the school premises. The highlights of the show included Gidda, Bhangra, Classical dance, Western dance and an impeccable story line. The show focused on the growing inclination of Punjabis towards seeking opportunities for living outside their motherland Punjab. And while doing so, they have to face plethora of hardships, struggle, alienation and even helplessness to return home.

Poetic Melodies

The Heart of Faith

It doesn't matter whom you worship,
Or the faith you choose to follow,
For the heart of truth lies not in names,
But in the paths we all must follow.
It doesn't matter whom you bow,
Or the deity you chant,
Be it Vishnu, Ganesh, Allah or Christ,
Their essence and blessings fill the universal air.
From the sacred flow of Ganges,
To the Sandy desert of Mecca,
Buddha's teachings, calm and low,
Guide the soul towards inner light.
From Moses' word, to Guru Nanak's voice,
Ganesh's wisdom to Jain vows,
Each speaks a truth, or a sacred choice,
To lead soul from the darkened world.
In every prayer, in every chant,
In temple, churches, or sacred idols,
The almighty resides forever,
In silent heart, in whispered tone.
Hindu, Muslim, Jew, or Christian,
Taoist, Sikh or Buddhist too,
All speak the same, though different,
A message of love, devotion that shines
high through.

-Arshveer Singh- 8C

When one reads,

Time speeds.

But when one stops,
time goes pause.

From peaceful walks,
to market chaos.

From giraffe and pigs,
to sheeps and cows.

Give some time and a part, you reading skill
will reach, further apart.

Read well and wonder how,
from running dish spoons,

to moon jumping cows.

Read them all, and learn hard,
books by Shakespeare sir and kipling Rudyard.

Harangad Singh 7D

She : Majesty Redefined

She is the ink,
Spilled onto the parchment of the world,
A script of creation, eloquent and unbroken.
They speak of equality,
Whispering shoulder to shoulder,
Yet they walk in her shadow,
Tracing paths she paved in silence.
Her womb, a chalice of legacy,
Carving generations from her very essence.
Her body, no temple—
It is the universe unfolding,
Each heartbeat, a cosmic hymn.
While her hands mend dreams,
Her spirit never demands.
She gives—not to serve,
But because she is abundance itself.
Tell her of battles for respect,
And she will smile softly.
For she has always been—
A queen in realms unseen.

Gold, Gold, Gold

It's all I hear know.

People say that it holds the warmth
of the Sun itself in its glow,
For the first time, let me as a someone ask?

Why couldn't others have a show?

Silver also does not shine.

Now, what if I told you that metals
were not the topic of the talk of mine!
